HONGKONG OFFICE: 14, DES VOUX ROAD ST.
LONDON OFFICE: 131, FLEET STREET, E.C.

HONGKONG, JANUARY 13TH, 1905.

We assume that the allusion in the extract that follows, taken from an article in our Shanghai contemporary, entitled "An Evening Stroll through a Canton Street," is to the Daily Press.—"I strolled into two opium dens. A leader in a representative paper, a few weeks since, indicated that there is a great divergence of opinion on what is called the 'opium question.' It seems to me, however, that the revelations of these low, damp, dirty, dark dens would convince most people that only evil can come to those who frequent them. Some smokers are yellow and emaciated. Many appear to be in good health. One old fellow, nearly seventy years of age, confessed that he had smoked for forty years, and admitted that he spent $3 per mensem. Yet he looked hale and vigorous. At the beginning of the conversation, many contended that the pipe stimulates the energies. A little quiet talk, however, will elicit the confession that the whole thing is bad, and that, in the end, physical deterioration generally follows addiction thereto." This is interesting, but if it is intended as a sort of rejoinder to our recent observations on the methods of the International Reform Bureau, is not appropriate. We had nothing to say on that occasion in defence of the use of opium, as, academically, we might have had; nor did we attempt to deny that "only evil can come to those who frequent"

low opium dens. We never had any doubt that in China opium was responsible for a great deal of misery, just as "Drink" is elsewhere. We would even admit, if pressed for an opinion, that tobacco smoking has also wrought much mischief. That, however, would be a different thing to admitting that legislative bodies should everywhere be guided by self-styled "reform bureaus," and abolish all that such people have discovered to be capable of abuse. We did not consider that this particular lot of reformers showed either good taste or sensible policy in requesting the British Premier to ask his Government to cancel the "dishonourable treaty," and with that phrase in mind, our comments were directed to show that the dishonourable character of that treaty with China had not been demonstrated. It is not necessary nowadays to advance arguments to the effect that sedatives and stimulants are desirable "evils." The "reformers" would not be convinced; and the almost spontaneous discovery and use of such things, by all peoples, and in all times, however much it might be emphasised, does not appear to have occurred to any of them as evidence of their necessity and inevitability. The correspondent of our contemporary can scarcely be considered a satisfactory advocate by the reformers, after his honest but indiscreet admission that a septuagenarian, who had smoked opium for forty years, "looked hale and vigorous." Imagine Sir WILFRID LAWSON admitting that a man of seventy, after drinking for forty years, could possibly be hale and vigorous. No, in setting about reforming, at the wrong end of the stick, the obvious procedure, and the procedure usually followed, is to emphasise the telling points, and to ignore all evidence that may happen to be unfavourable. This admission from Canton is the first direct evidence brought to our notice that opium smoking could be habitually indulged in without harmful results, and whereas before we had no doubt that it was a bad habit we now entertain some doubt. We attach no value whatever to those "little quiet talks," in which the opium smoker confesses that "the whole thing is bad, and that, in the end, physical deterioration generally follows addiction thereto." The Oriental has absorbed the sense of St. PAUL's advice to be all things to all men. His notion of politeness is to please the foreign interrogator by saying what he thinks he is expected to say, and heartily agreeing with what he conceives to be the foreigner's opinions. It has been noticed how frequently, when a foreigner experimentally drops a hint that he is a Buddhist, or a Fire Worshipper, or something of the kind, the Chinese or Japanese "Christian" drops his hypocritical professions of grace. A Japanese referring to some of his national converts spoke of them as "untamed rhinoceroses, simulating tamed, as the easiest way of getting things good for their rhinoceros-flesh." Chinese who, in opium dens, tell foreigners that opium is a bad thing are probably about as sincere as the man who, at the hotel bar, proposes "Down with the Drink."

H.M.S. Alacrity left for Mirs Bay yesterday.

The French mail of the 15th December was delivered in London on the 11th inst.

The Hon. Treasurer of the Alice Memorial and Netherole Hospitals begs to acknowledge with thanks a donation of $35 to the funds of the Hospitals from a Zoroastrian.

At the instance of Inspector Hanson, Chung Nam was charged with being the keeper of a common gaming house at No. 91, Queen Road West. Mr. F. A. Hazell fined the defendant $350, in default four months' hard labour.

From a letter which reached us yesterday from Vladivostok, but bearing a German stamp and the Shanghai postmark, it appears that a letter posted in Hongkong (for Vladivostok) takes about two months and a half to reach its destination.

Miss Adeline Sergeant, the well-known novelist, and a first cousin of the late editor of the "Daily Press," died at Bournemouth early in December. Miss Sergeant was 54 years of age. She had written about thirty novels, the first appearing in 18-2.

A coolie who was found in unlawful possession of a pair of rubber shoes outside a pawnshop in Hollywood Road was fined $50 or three months, by Mr. H. H. J. Gompertz at the Police Court yesterday. He was further ordered to be publicly exposed in the stocks for six hours.

Many of our readers will regret to learn that news reached the Colony by the mail yesterday of the death of Mr. Walter Tarn, who was a resident in the Colony from 1884 until 1898. He was an officer in the Naval Yard, and during the last four years of his residence he carried out the duties of Naval Store Officer. He will be remembered by many as an earnest and enthusiastic worker in connection with St. Peter's Church. Mr. Tarn was 46 years of age.

Mr. M. W. Shale, the well-known barrister here, is, it is reported, having received news of his father's death, leaving for Home in a few days.

Messrs. John D. Hutchinson and Company, as Hongkong agents of the Patriotic Assurance Company—life, fire, accident, fidelity, burglary—have sent us a diary blotting book. The capital of the Company is £1,500,000.

We vouch for the truth of this story:—"How fashion you make catch so plenty fire-extinguishers?" asked a local Chinaman in his friend's godown. "Hai-yah! B'long awli. So fashion my makee catch two-a' per cent. off my plenum; and makes! All piece have got petroleum inside."

Two small Chinese boys, aged respectively 12 and 13 years, were charged before Mr. F. A. Hazell at the Police Court yesterday with housebreaking. The offence being proved, the first defendant was discharged, and the second, who had a previous conviction, was detained for 48 hours, and sentenced to 12 strokes of the birch.

We are officially authorized to state that subject to audit, the Directors of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation will recommend at the forthcoming meeting a dividend of £1 10s. per share, a bonus of £1 per share, and to the reserve fund $1,000,000, write off property account $200,000, and carry forward about $1,500,000.

Before Mr. H. H. J. Gompertz at the Police Court yesterday, eight coolies—five Sanitary Board and three outside coolies—were charged with gambling in a Sanitary matched near No. 2 Station. Each of the defendants were fined $10, and the three coolies who were caught in the Sanitary matched without permission were mulcted in a further amount of $10 each.

About thirty minutes after midnight, on Wednesday, a Daily Press reporter, who chanced to be in Cause Road, witnessed the funeral cortege of the unhappy men who were executed some eighteen hours before. Each of the three coffins were carried by four coolies by means of rope and bamboo poles, and an officer of the gnat followed in a chair. The executed men were buried in a quiet spot on the outskirts of the town.

Mr. W. B. Dixon, chief manager of the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Co., Limited, writes:—"The U. S.S. Fathomer, constructed by this Company for survey work in the Philippines, being about to depart for Manila and having been fitted out in an unusually handsome manner, is worth a visit. Launches will leave for the ship from Queen's Statue Wharf on Friday, 13th instant, at 2.30 and 3 p.m., returning at 4 p.m."

Peter Brookman was placed before Mr. F. A. Hazell at the Police Court yesterday, charged with behaving in a disorderly manner while drunk, also with assaulting a policeman in the execution of his duty. It was brought under the notice of the Magistrate that this man's passage had been paid home, but that he would not leave the Colony as he stated he could get a better living here. Defendant was fined $15 or one month's imprisonment.

Mr. T. Serebom Smith, Puisne Judge of Hongkong, is unlikely to be able to resume his duties at the Supreme Court for ten days or even longer. On Saturday last, while playing cricket, he was badly hit on the leg by a cricket ball. Although hurt, he did not think much about the matter; but on Monday evening, after sitting all day on the Bench, he found his leg badly swollen. He went to the Government Civil Hospital, where he now remains. The wound is not healing as it should.

A very pleasant evening was spent by members of the Union Church Literary Club in the Club room last night. The occasion was the new year's social, and opening night of the second half term. An excellent programme, musical and elocutionary, was provided by Miss Harker, Mrs. David Wood, Mr. E. F. Aucott and Mr. W. G. Leckie. The vocalists were accompanied by Mr. George Grimble. After the musical treat, members were regaled with light refreshments.

A report from the Japanese Consul at Chianamp states that the presence of kerosene has been discovered at a village about four miles from Phyoongang in Kantong district. Phyoongang. According to the opinion of some American experts who inspected the above place last year, the locality abounds with kerosene. There are also three large veins of coal in the Samteng district in the same province. Until recent years this coal had been worked by Koreans, who, however, could not make it pay. A mineral water is also obtainable at a spot in Kangso district, in the same province. For some years past the rights had been held by a Japanese, but were lately transferred to a company.

By kind permission of Major Radcliff and officers, the Band of the 93rd Burma Infantry will play the following programme of music, at the King Edward Hotel, during dinner, this (Friday) evening:—

March..... "The Soldiers of the Guard" Levey
Morceau..... "Salut d'Amour"..... Elgar

MR. CHAMBERLAIN.

LONDON, 10th January.

In a letter from Mr. Chamberlain, published in Melbourne, declining an invitation to visit Australia, Mr. Chamberlain says that personally he would not regret if the Opposition had an opportunity of showing the real character of their alternative policy. A short time in opposition would invigorate our party, and then on their return to power they could look forward to triumph.

GREAT BRITAIN AND GERMANY.

LONDON, 10th January.

The recent reorganisation of the British fleet, coupled with the article in the Army and Navy Gazette, advocating the destruction of the German fleet before it becomes too powerful, has caused a sensation in official quarters in Berlin. It is understood that reassuring explanations have now been given.

BULLION FOR JAPAN.

LONDON, 10th January.

The s.s. China ships half a million of gold to Japan.

THE WAR.

(N.C. Daily News Service.)

THE DIET'S RECOGNITION.

Tokyo, 6th January.

The House of Representatives will today adopt a memorial to the Throne with a vote of thanks to General Nogri.
The President of the House of Peers presents their greetings to the Throne.

SPURRING THE POPULAR ENTHUSIASM.

Tokyo, 6th January.

The Kokumin Shimban of Tokyo urges the removal of the popular sentiments to deal with the situation in the future. It is imperative that there should be no feeling of weariness if victory is to be ultimately secured.

PEACE RUMOURS GROUNDLESS.

Tokyo, 6th January.

The Kokumin flatly denies the rumours of peace. There can be no conviction of the possibility of mediation while both belligerents are resolved to fight on the issue.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THEIR SHIPS BY THE RUSSIANS.

Tokyo, 6th January.

A few of the papers pass strictures on the coincidence of the surrender of Port Arthur with the destruction of what would otherwise have been hard-earned prizes, but some of the military sections deprecate this as narrow-minded.

THE ENERGY OF THE RED CROSS SOCIETY.

Tokyo, 6th January.

The Red Cross Society has purchased four hospital ships.

SOME EFFECTS OF THE JAPANESE FIRE.

Tokyo, 6th January.

It is reliably stated that in consequence of the recent bombardment, the torpedo gun vessels Gaidanaka and Vandrich (400 tons each), the armoured cruiser Buyan (7,800 tons), and the destroyers Aditshy, Silny, and Boerov, were destroyed; the torpedo storehouse Amur (2,500 tons) is sunk at full length in the dock, and the gunboat Bohr (50 tons) alongside. The pier is reduced to ashes.

THE MEETING OF THE TWO GENERALS.

Tokyo, 6th January.

General Stoessel and General Nogri had a two-hour interview from noon on the 5th at Shuishyhying.
The meeting between Generals Stoessel and Nogri was a cordial one. Stoessel enquired of the fullest bravery of the Japanese and Nogri's indomitableness; he thanked Nogri for the transmission of his telegram to the Tsar, and his generous treatment of the Russian officers and men.

Hearing of the death of Nogri's two sons at Port Arthur, Stoessel burst into tears, and Nogri replied that he was pleased by the devotion of his two sons to his country deeply moved Stoessel, who declared that that spirit was the cause of Japan's present position. General Stoessel proposed to present to General Nogri his favourite Arab charger, which General Nogri declined to receive personally as it is part of the spoils of war; but he promised to receive it in the name of the army and take it under his patronage.

THE TRANSFER OF THE GARRISON.

Tokyo, 6th January.

The prisoners received on the 5th comprised 186 officers, of whom 86 took the oath not to serve again during the war, and 5,451 men.
Five thousand prisoners left Port Arthur yesterday. The officers and non-combatants are to be shipped at Dalny for Nagasaki, where they will re-embark for home.

THE QUESTION OF MANCHURIA AND PORT ARTHUR.

Tokyo, 6th January.

A high authority deprecates designating it "Manchuria" en bloc, when discussing its international status.
The surrender of Port Arthur, which is the centre of the Russian scheme in Liaoning, implies that Japanese has superseded Russian ownership in the leased territory, where Japan applies the stipulations in the Hague Convention of 1899 regarding the military administration of the enemy's territory, while the maintenance of the integrity of China is kept in sight.

THE USUAL PARKING.

LONDON, 6th January.

In reference to the statement that there is to be an enquiry into the surrender of Port Arthur, the Novos Vremya declares:—"Let us have a court-martial by all means; then we shall discover why the fortress was unsupplied with food and ammunition, and who are Russia's real enemies, infinitely more dangerous than the Japanese."

THE "CYDONIA" ASHORE.

Yesterday we reported that the Cydonia had been seen ashore on the Blenheim Shoal. The Strait Times says that this vessel is the British cooler Cydonia of North Shields of 1,020 tons. She was bound to the north with coal. The Cydonia was seen by the Benlary, Oakley, and Ong Sang. She is ashore 13 miles North of W. magnetic of One-Fathom-Lighthouse. One steamer is standing by her. The Cydonia wishes to be reported to Lloyd's Agents.

The Captain of the B. I. steamer Zamania reported that he tried to tow the Cydonia off the Blenheim Shoal, but did not succeed. The Captain of the Cydonia asked for tugs and lighters to be sent to his assistance.

UNITED CHAPTER.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

At a regular meeting of the United Chapter, 1,341 English Constitution, of Royal Arch Masons, held at Freemason's Hall, Zealand Street, on Wednesday evening, E. Companion Woodley was elected M.E.Z.; M. E. Companion H. W. Wolfe, H.; Companion H. Baker, J.; M.E. Companion H. E. A. Hollis, Scribe E.; Companion J. J. Bullin, Scribe N.; Companion J. Gimblett, Treasurer; Companion J. R. Craik, P.S.; Companion J. N. Jones, Steward; Companion J. Vanstone, Janitor.

There was a social downstairs afterwards, the guests of the evening being M. E. Companion W. L. Ford, who is leaving the Colony on a well-earned pension, and M. E. Companion Watson, going home on leave. M. E. Companion Ford has been connected with Freemasonry for upwards of twenty-two years, and will be greatly missed by his fellow-workers.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT HOLLYWOOD ROAD.

SEVERAL CHINESE BURNED TO DEATH.

A serious fire occurred at No. 168, Hollywood Road, on Wednesday night last, wherein several Chinese were roasted alive. The fire broke out on the ground floor of the shop, and although the brigade were promptly notified and were quickly on the spot, by the time they arrived the fire had a strong hold and was burning fiercely. Their efforts to stay its progress were not successful until it had caught on to a house, No. 39, Square Street, at the back of Hollywood Road. This house, together with the one in which the fire originally occurred, was gutted. Nothing but the bare walls was standing when our reporter visited the scene yesterday. The houses destroyed contained four stories, and it was the residents of the third and fourth floors who perished in the flames. There is no right-of-way between the two houses, hence when the staircase was burnt, the residents on the upper floors were caught in a veritable death trap. The corpses of a woman and two children were dug out from the debris in the Hollywood Road shop, and as the police were informed there were others burnt in the Square Street house, a gang of coolies under the charge of Sergeant Macdonald were sent to search among the ruins. At 4.30 p.m. yesterday afternoon the charred body of a woman was unearthed and later, four further corpses, charred beyond recognition, were found huddled together on part of the first floor of the Hollywood Road house which had not collapsed. The premises were insured for $1,500. Three men have been arrested in connection with the outbreak, so that probably further developments will be chronicled.

DISQUIETUDE IN KWANGTUNG.

A gentleman who has just arrived at Hongkong from the interior informs us that there is every indication of a serious general uprising in Kwangtung Province, especially in the delta of the Canton River. Well-informed wealthy natives even consider it advisable to leave their homes to take refuge at Hongkong and elsewhere. Piracy is rampant, rendering the inhabitants of small towns in constant fear of being either robbed or kidnapped for ransom. At Tongku (in Heungshan District) last week the pirates captured the baggage of several Chinese returning from the United States—baggage containing money, etc. to the value of $5,000. On one side of Wongmoon (at the mouth of the West River) the natives were prevented from cultivating their autumn rice crop because they refused to pay blackmail—so much per mu. The Officials are quite incapable, and police boats are even known to witness acts of piracy without attempting to guard the shipping and country. The other day the pirates captured the guard boat at Taiping Creek without meeting any resistance, and they took away all the arms, ammunition, and etc. Arms are being smuggled into the country in large quantities.

SUPREME COURT.

Thursday, 12th January.

IN ORIGINAL JURISDICTION.

BEFORE SIR H. S. BARKLEY (CHIEF JUSTICE).

LOO WING KEE v. THE YU HING LUNG FIRM.
In this action the plaintiff (Loo Wing Kee, of Nos. 2 and 4, Kat On Street, Hongkong, cash iron founder) sought to recover $4,721.42 owing to him by the defendant firm (the Yu Hing Lung, of Nos. 85 and 87, Station Street, Mongkok, Yamati, boiler and machinery makers).

Mr. N. FERRERS, instructed by Mr. R. A. Harding, appeared for the plaintiff. The defendant was not represented, and was absent from Court.

Mr. N. FERRERS said the action was a very ordinary one—goods sold and delivered. The defendant had told the plaintiff that he could not pay his debts and was leaving the Colony, and advised the plaintiff to take possession of his goods. After an affidavit had been made a writ was issued, the plaintiff entering into possession of the defendant's premises where there were machinery, goods and chattels. A notice that a writ of Foreign Attachment had been issued against the defendant's property was twice advertised in the Hongkong Daily Press, and other requirements of the Ordinance had been carried out.

His Lordship—Did you advertise in one of the Chinese papers; both the Hongkong Daily Press and China Mail have Chinese editions?

Mr. N. FERRERS—No, my Lord, I will proceed to prove the case.
The plaintiff said:—I know the Yu Hing Lung; they were machinists making machines for steamers. I have had business with that firm for several years. I prepared and supplied machinery for them. They owe me an account for machinery supplied, amounting to $4,721.42. When I used to supply them with goods the account was checked every month, and the book chopped. Yu Hing Lung's business belonged to himself, and he was the manager. He told me he was going to run away, and he has run away—he could not pay his debts and was leaving the Colony. I afterwards applied for a writ to seize his goods—on the 22nd December. I never heard of any other person as being partner or proprietor of this business.

Mr. F. HOWELL, the head bailiff, said:—On the 24th December a writ of Foreign Attachment was placed in my hands. I proceeded to serve it on one Chan Shing, a man on the defendant's premises, and I took possession on the same date of all the goods, chattels and machinery, acting under the direction of the Registrar-General. Messrs. Gibb, Livingston & Co. were subsequently served with a writ of garnishee, served on the 24th December by Mr. Leonard.

Mr. N. FERRERS—We want judgment, my Lord, and an order of execution against the property.
His Lordship—I will give you judgment against the defendant firm for the sum of $4,721.42 with costs. With respect to the remainder of the proceedings you had better first advertise in one or both of the Chinese papers.

Mr. N. FERRERS—That would not be necessary, my Lord.

His Lordship—Execution is to be given against the property of the defendant firm. The defendant may be only manager, though as far as we know he is proprietor, and probably the goods in the shop are his. But put a short advertisement in a Chinese paper. You have judgment, but now I want you to advertise before I grant execution. I shall sit on Monday. If you put in an advertisement to-morrow you can again apply to me then for execution. Put in a short notice saying you have received judgment and that an application will be made at ten o'clock on Monday for execution against these premises.

The Court was adjourned sine die.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

BEFORE SIR H. S. BARKLEY (CHIEF JUSTICE).

THE LAI WAH FIRM EX PARTE PUN YAN PO.

This was an application for adjudication. Mr. P. W. Goldring (of Mr. G. K. H. Brutton's office), appearing for the applicant, said that the creditors had no objection.

His Lordship made out an order, the Official Receiver being appointed trustee.

YU HING BANK EX PARTE MA PAK CHUEN.

Mr. Dixon (of Mr. J. Hastings's office) appeared for the petitioning creditor. He said that Ma Pak Chuen owed his client $3,000 due on two promissory notes.

A receiving order was granted, the Official Receiver being appointed.

WONG MAN SHUN (WONG TAI WO) EX PARTE THE DEBTOR.

This was an application for a receiving order. Mr. Otto Kong Sing, appearing for the debtor, said that his client was not able to pay his debts. The liabilities amounted to $30,000 as against $15,000 in assets.

His Lordship made out an order, the Official Receiver being appointed.

WEATHER REPORT.

The Hongkong Observatory yesterday issued the following:—
On the 12th at 11.35 a.m. The barometer has fallen slightly in Mid-China and has risen at all other stations.

Gradients are moderate upon the coast of China and fresh N.E. monsoon will prevail in the Formosa Channel, and moderate to fresh N.E. winds in the northern part of the China Sea.

Forecast:—Fresh E. to N.E. winds, cloudy, fair.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SAVING LIFE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

SIR,—In your paper of the 9th inst., under the heading of "Hongkong Jottings" mention is made of the heroic deed of Dr. Foster whereby he was the means of saving the lives of two occupants of a sampan which had capsized in the Harbour. The jury very properly took notice of the brave act and have called the attention of the Government to it, and in time it is probable that the gallant Doctor will receive a richly deserved Medal from the Royal Humane Society. It is to be hoped that this gallantry will not be left unrecognised as has been the case on two previous occasions, viz. the saving of a man at Kowloon in August, 1903, and the rescue of a sailing party off Wan-chai last yachting season, particulars of which are appended herewith.

(No. 1) It was at about midnight on the first occasion when a few sports who had been dining well but not too wisely were waiting for the incoming ferry at Kowloon, when one of them fell into the water close by the Kowloon Ferry Pier. The unfortunate man could not swim, and no one was there at the time to effect a rescue, when opportunely Mr. S. Gidley appeared on the scene and, seeing there was no time to be wasted before the launch would reach the pier, jumped into the water, clothes and all, and after a considerable struggle succeeded in bringing the man to the steps, just in time to avert being crushed by the double-ended which bumped the very spot where the rescue had been made.

(No. 2) Mr. Lyons whilst riding along Praya East saw a sailing boat capsizing, throwing its occupants—a European lady and her children—into the water. Although it was at some distance from the Praya, Mr. Lyons—a good swimmer—dived over the Praya wall, and was the means of saving the unfortunate party from drowning.

Neither of these cases have been publicly recognised, and I venture to think this is a favourable opportunity of bringing the circumstances before the authorities.

Apologising for encroaching on your valuable space.—Yours, &c.,

BINGO.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

Hongkong, 12th January.

SIR,—I must thank you for your liberality in inserting my letter of the 9th inst. and for the candid criticism in your leader of the 10th. Still, lest some disciple whose ear my arguments may have caught should be prompted to falter as a result of your criticism, I again ask for a little more of your indulgence.

Though my letter was only an endeavour to incite a petition in favour of the condemned men, who now have passed beyond our sympathies and our justice, the subject proved of sufficient interest to incite a well-considered leader, in which, inter alia, you have more thoroughly convinced me of the truth of the main proposition, that capital punishment is a relic of barbarism.

This conviction grows by contemplation of the fact that you have gone back to barbaric times for the precedent of capital punishment. Your leader affirms that "in the earlier communities, a killer was regarded as a common danger, and suppressed as such, for the good of the community. The simple philosophy of those days was that a dead killer would kill no more."

It has also been affirmed that in the earlier communities a killer was regarded as a "very delectable, highly respectable" warrior—providing he could kill someone of another tribe. The simple philosophy of those days being, that one less of their real or imagined enemies meant so much reduction of fighting power.

Your leader's affirmation that punishment in general deters wrong-doers, and Capital punishment in particular deters murderers, is equally fragile.

Since we do not know with accuracy who are the potential murderers, we are, on this hypothesis, compelled to regard all men as potential murderers. Besides which, we are led to the conclusion, that we are only moral in so far as we fear the policeman, and the moral man is he who has the greatest dread of the consequences of law—contentions somewhat at variance with fact.

That evil should be combatted, I agree, but contend that the causes require the greatest attention, and the causes are to be found in the category of heredity and environment.

Whether the "new-fangled diagnosis" is fashionable—which I deny—or not, is apart from the question; as also is the alleged danger attached to such a doctrine. The question is, whether such a doctrine is, or is not, true. That the scientific diagnosis of crime is not fashionable is sufficiently answered by the fact that Capital punishment is still a law of England. That no assistance in repressing crime has come from this method of diagnosing is probably due to the fact that the "new-fangled" ideas have not yet been tried. While Editors remain unconverted, and the majority of men apparently indifferent upon such questions, there is only a remote likelihood of the ideas gaining popular approval.

The fear that I have already exceeded the usual space limit hinders me to a close with the mere remark that I did not anticipate the dear metaphor to be ridden to death. And yet I had thought the picture so delightfully clear! Alas! a never known! There may be some connecting thought between the lopping off of branches and the lopping off of heads, but the connection is not particularly obvious. Besides, the crookedness of some trees is their especial beauty, whereas crookedness in humans, whether physical or moral, is always ugly.—Yours, etc.,

W. D.

THE CHINA PROVIDENT LOAN AND MORTGAGE CO., LD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

12th January.

SIR,—The report for the year 1904 of the above named Company has appeared in print, and from the balance sheet I note that the sum of $10,000 has been invested in 8 per cent. debentures of the China Light and Power Company, $40,500 in 1,350 shares of the Green Island Cement Company, and $22,500 in 2,500 new issue shares of the China Light and Power Company, Limited. The report is itself, as far as the net working is concerned, shows the substantial gain of about $10,000 over and above the earnings for 1903, which is very satisfactory indeed, but while the Company has an overdraft of $81,000 with the Bank, it might be questioned whether it would not have been better to reduce that overdraft instead of investing in China Light and Power Company shares, and in Green Island Cement Company shares. The report states that the latter are taken at a valuation of $30 per share, while the present market value is only $29, and it would be interesting to know why, under what circumstances, and at what price those shares have been purchased. Nothing can be said against investing in a debenture stock, but to my way of thinking, the investing of $22,500 in the stock of a Company, however good its prospects may be, but which has so far not paid any dividends at all, is a very questionable proceeding, and I trust some satisfactory explanation will be given by the Chairman of the Company at the forthcoming meeting.

—Enclosing my card, I am, Dear Sir, Yours faithfully,

INQUIRER.

FROM A PRO-RUSSIAN.

[We received yesterday an anonymous postcard. We have no recollection of what article it refers to, but reproduce it because of the amusing outburst at the end.]

"LONDON, 9th December, 1904.

"Outrageous" Japan you mean, which has been caught in this (sic) own snare. Surely China may make any agreement she wishes without the interference of the greedy Mikado and his pugnacious invading Japs. Why does not China compel the audacious raiders to return to their own island and give up Formosa on their way? Russia will always protect Manchuria from the outrageous Japs who tried hard to get it in 1904; indeed, they want everything! Mikado's greed is all for land & water. His bosom friend the vilest news-reporter."

FOOTBALL.

H. K. F. C. BATTLESHIPS.

This a Rugby match, was played at Happy Valley yesterday afternoon and resulted in a win for the Naval team. Sides were as follows:—

H. K. F. C.—J. A. F. Bouchier, back; A. S. Komphorne, G. D. Bateman, Lieut. Hannay and Dixon, three-quarters; H. Soper and J. P. Jordan, halves; Lieut. Bunking, Haoran, J. C. Steen, Lieut. Macdonald, D. B. Murray and H. F. Chard, forwards.

Battleships—Cantrell (Glory), back; Fallowfield (Centurion), Fawcett (Albion), Barry (Glory) and La Page (Glory), three-quarters; Hallett (Albion) and Child (Albion), halves; Taylor (Albion), Matthews (Albion), Bartlett (Albion), Danby (Albion), Haddon (Glory), Blacowe (Centurion), Felmman (Centurion) and Pearson (Centurion), forwards.

The Club men kicked off; they were almost immediately put on the defensive, the Navy having the best of the game throughout. The Navy, it is only fair to mention, had a full team whereas the Club played two men short; the former nearly always were successful in getting the ball out of the scrums. After a bustling bout in front of the Club goal the Navy very nearly scored, but a Club man, it was announced, managed to touch down the ball. Bateman and Hannay were applauded for a pretty piece of passing play in the centre of the field. The Navy pressed hard, Chard relieving the Club by a good dribble. A piece of Dixon's work at three-quarters was recognised—he picked up the ball while running at full speed and made a neat kick when tackled. At half time the score was nil.

In the second half, Cantrell, secured possession and scored a good try by sheer fast running. It was not converted. Hallett (Navy) got away merrily, but was upset by Bouchier near the line. The same player got another chance a little later, and this time went the whole distance. Cantrell failed to convert. A pretty combined run was made by Jordan, Bateman and Dixon. Soper carried the ball some distance, and it looked as if the Club would score. When tackled, however, he passed forward, and a scrum resulted. Jordan next had the field behind him, but was made short work of by Cantrell, a swifter sprinter.

Result—Battleships, 2 tries (6 points); H.K.F.C., nil.

LATEST STEAMER MOVEMENTS.

The C.P.R. steamer Empress of India arrived at Kobe at 3 p.m. on Friday, the 11th inst., and left again at midnight via Nagasaki for Shanghai, where she is due to arrive at 6 a.m. on Sunday, the 15th inst.

The C.N. steamer Tainan, from Australian port, left Manila yesterday at noon, and is due here on Sunday the 15th inst. at daylight.

INTERNATIONAL LAW AGAIN.

[FROM A SOUTH AFRICAN CORRESPONDENT.]

A fact, which has long been known to lawyers and diplomatists, but which has been little understood by the general public, has been brought into unpleasant prominence by the Russo-Japanese war, namely the slender force of international law. Those who have had to study the subject or have had to deal with it practically have long been aware that so-called international law is hardly law in the proper sense of the word. Apart from specific treaty obligations, which are not very numerous, there is little beyond very general theory to bind nations upon any of the most important international questions, and when these come to practical application we have to rely rather upon the honour and conscientiousness of the nations concerned than upon any means of enforcing them. Law without the means of upholding it is, however, no law at all, and so-called international law is unfortunately of this nature. Of this we have had of late but too many illustrations, most prominent among which of course stand the Malacca incident and the Baltic fishing fleet outrage. The latter, of course, was of the nature either of an unpardonable blunder, or, more unpardonable wantonness, and can hardly be brought within the sphere of any discussion of principles of international law. With the Malacca incident the matter stood differently. Much plausible argument may be adduced as to the right of search of neutral vessels, and no general principle can be laid down which will cover all cases. Such principles as exist are largely derived from Jurists who, eminent though they were in their time, still dealt with a state of facts totally different from those existing in the present day. Grote's Vattel, and other eminent authorities, will carry us but a small distance in practically dealing with any question that may now arise, and even such authorities as Wheaton and Story are, for the same reasons, often but partial guides in circumstances totally different from any with which they were acquainted. Let us then discuss as much as they like the principles of international law, it is the Governments concerned who have to apply them, and who do so for the most part, when at all events, one side is actuated by the strongest feelings and at times pressed by the direct necessity. Under such circumstances it can hardly be expected that the nicest discrimination will be observed in the application of principles of international law, even if those principles were not sufficiently vague in themselves.

It is not very surprising, therefore, to find that one of the most eminent exponents of international law, Mr. Dicey, should recently have come forward and asserted as that the breach of Law to which he has devoted so much study is really of very little practical use in the settlement of international disputes, and that in effect the public generally are very ignorant in imagining that it could possibly be so. The spectacle is sad no doubt, but it also instructive, and it is at least valuable in a very important direction. It is something to have one, whose intimate acquaintance with international law makes it impossible for opponents of his views to assert that he does not know what he is talking about, on the side of the common sense people who have always questioned the possibility of establishing international tribunals, or of finding some preventives for war in an imaginary High Court of Arbitration. Such an ideal, however attractive it may be, must be regarded as merely an ideal by all who judge by facts, and not by feelings. Mr. Dicey points to the impossibility of maintaining anything like strict neutrality when once political feelings are fairly aroused; and upon this ground he endeavours to exonerate Germany from many of the charges which he considers have been unjustly made against her in the British Press, in connection with the war. Neutrality, in fact, is considered by him to be almost an impossibility, and in this he is probably not very far from the truth. Whether all his deductions from the fact, can be followed must be matter of opinion; but it must be admitted that he has touched the weak point of international law with considerable accuracy. Principles usually discussed in times of peace with scholastic nicety have to be applied in times of war, when necessity, which proverbially knows no law, international or other, must be the guiding motive. In the end, their maintenance must depend upon a more enlarged view of national advantage than the majority of even tried Statesmen are found to possess. What may be very advantageous on one occasion to a nation, may prove eminently the contrary on another; and far-sighted Statesmen, even in times of stress or of actual war, will be slow to act on any principle which, if the circumstances become reversed, may be turned with serious effect against themselves. This bearing of the subject has been very much lost sight of by Russia on many occasions during the war; but it is to be hoped that it has not been forgotten by our own Statesmen and those of other countries. With respect to purchases from neutrals of convertible trading vessels and the like acts, it might be poor policy on our part to press such a point further; that it should be legitimately carried as obviously the occasion might arise when we might wish to do very much the same thing; and, in the same way, it would be impolitic on our part to press too strongly against the right to search neutral vessels, as this right must be of the greatest importance to any nation dependent upon her naval resources. In all such cases the most that can be relied upon is bona fides and statesmanly foresight on the part of the nations concerned. Any attempts to press international law further must be productive of disappointment—and as to the idea that some international tribunal might be established, whose dictates in the event of disputes arising would have the effect of for ever averting war, one consideration alone is sufficient to show its impractical character. Not only would it be impossible for such a tribunal to enforce its decisions, but in nine cases out of ten it would not and could not do what is much more important, namely, remove the causes of the dispute between the parties, which removal is generally brought about by a war. If an Arbitration Tribunal had ordered Russia to go out of Manchuria and to cease menacing Japan, does anybody imagine she would have done so? Even now, if one can imagine her doing so at the dictates of any such imaginary tribunal, how long does any sensible man believe it would be before she would be back again? No doubt minor questions may and should be settled by arbitration, if other means cannot be found, but large international questions, where, in some cases, the very life of a nation is at stake, cannot possibly be so adjusted while the world and human nature continue what they are.

THE STOESEL-NOGI CORRESPONDENCE.

The Japan Chronicle gives the text of the letters that passed between General Stoesel and Nogi, relative to the surrender of Port Arthur. The following despatch from General Nogi was received at Headquarters, Tokyo, on Monday.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon an (lat) messenger from the enemy presented himself at the first fighting line south of Suishiyang, and delivered a letter to the officer in command there. I received the letter at 9 o'clock the same evening. It was as follows:—

Sir,—Considering the general situation of the district of campaign, I am convinced that further resistance from the garrison of Port Arthur stronghold is useless. Under the circumstances, I desire to arrange terms of surrender in order to avoid further destruction of human life. Should your Excellency agree to my proposal you will appoint a Commissioner to arrange the terms, and choose a place where your Commissioner will meet my Commissioner. I avail myself of this opportunity of expressing my respect.

(Signed) GENERAL STOESEL.

"I have decided to send a messenger at daylight this morning with the following reply:—

Sir,—I have the honour of accepting your Excellency's proposal to arrange the terms of surrender. I have appointed Major-General Tjichi Kosuke, Chief of the Port Arthur Investment Army, as Commissioner, and this officer will be accompanied by several Staff officers and officials. He will meet your Commissioner at Suishiyang at noon of the 2nd January. The Commissioners of either side shall be given full power to sign the agreement of surrender, which will take immediate effect after signing without awaiting ratification. The credentials giving plenary powers to the respective Commissioners shall be signed by the Chief Commanders of each side and they shall be exchanged.

I avail myself of this opportunity of assuring your Excellency of my respect.

General in command of the Port Arthur Investment Army.

H. E. General Stoesel, Command-in-Chief of the Kwantung Fortifications."

Marshal Marquis Yamamoto, Chief of the General Army Staff, at the command of his Majesty, sent the following telegram to General Nogi at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 2nd:—

"I have laid before the Throne the proposal of General Stoesel to surrender Port Arthur. His Majesty, appreciating the faithfulness of General Stoesel and the honourable service he has rendered his country, desires that General Stoesel shall be allowed to receive the honours of war."

"I respectfully transmit this to you."

MADAME STOESEL'S APPEAL.

The Peking Gazette reports that M. Perloff, millionaire son-in-law of Moscow, received a letter from Mme. Stoesel, in Port Arthur, to the following effect:—

I send you this sheet of paper, from which you will see that our business is to take care of and assist our poor defenders of Port Arthur. We cannot collect much money here because there are very few of the inhabitants who are able to give anything. I appeal through you to that good, generous Moscow, that always answers an appeal for those in need. Be so good as to collect something among your rich men, and send us a draft through the Russo-Chinese Bank in my name. We shall do what we can now, and at the end of the war they will be sent to Russia. There are some who have lost both arms, some who have lost either an arm or a leg, some who have eyes, a few wounded in the spine who will remain cripples throughout their lives. There are many, many unfortunate people. Help us, dear Sir. You have always been good and kind. Others will follow your example. My husband greets you and sends compliments. When the war ends we shall see each other in Moscow.—Yours faithfully,

VERA STOESEL.

EDUCATION IN INDIA.

One of the many things that the poor British officer in India has to do (says a writer in the Asian) is to inspect Army School mistresses, and those who desire to become Army school-mistresses. Even the sang-froid habitué, which, in this instance, we have no doubt Smith Minor would translate as the "customary (adjective) cheek" of the B. O., oft-times deserts him when he is asked to face a detachment of bright-eyed beauties anxious to be selected to teach Tommy Atkins's child the three R's. The gallant officer recently holding this appointment had quite a trying experience not so very long ago. He was examining the pretty young ladies en masse on "general knowledge," and he asked them to name two prominent statesmen of the Victorian era. It stamped all excepting one blue-eyed maiden who said she knew. "Who were they, then?" said the officer. "John Bull and Charles Dickens," said she. Then did the poor examiner by his heavy head upon his desk and laugh sans intermission for the space of ten minutes by the clock. When he recovered he found poor little blue-eyes in tears provoked by his headless mirth, and it cost him quite a fortune in boxes of chocolates before she would forgive him—and even then the next time they met she cut him dead! And yet some people say that life in the Army is all beer and skittles!

THE SURRENDER OF PORT ARTHUR.

The "Temporary Occupation" of Port Arthur by Russia has suddenly ceased!

The fortress has fallen; the impregnable has been taken, the mighty have been humbled and the semi-European lies at the feet of the triumphant Asiatic.

With what cynicism did the diplomats of the Tsar, seven years since, insert that simple word "temporary," and yet how prophetic it was! Fate never prepared a more dubiously dramatic fulfillment. Were Macbeth's witches present, we might wonder, at the signature of this historic document?

Port Arthur was to be a Muscovite Gibraltar—they made it a Sedan!

Seven short years only has Russia lorded it over Chinese territory in the Liaochang Peninsula. Now she has gone. Turned out with scant ceremony and no regret. Turned out by an "enemy" for whom the most contemptuous epithets in an expressive tongue were all too weak to word her withering scorn. Turned out by the "dwarfs," the "yellow monkeys"! Poor Russia!

She apparently did not know that for the last ten years every patriotic prayer in the Japanese tongue has ended with "Delenda est Carthago!" or as it would now run in modern English, "Down with Russia!" In the fool's paradise in which she has been living it never seems to have occurred to her that there was an enemy looking over the fence, a calculating, observing, thoughtful, clever, and yet withal a deadly and inveterate enemy, who was merely biding his time, getting into condition, and accumulating the "sinews of war." Did Russia know that she had offended Japan? She must have known so much and doubtless did, but her knowledge was as the knowledge of an autocrat whose carriage had knocked over a beggar. It was not worth a second thought. But, for ten years, Japan has nursed her anger, her righteous and justifiable wrath, and this is the result. All this while the European world had been hypnotised into the belief that Russia was strong. Japan knew better. Never was bubble more fearlessly, or more skillfully pricked. Never was success more boldly avowed, more honourably won.

The story of Port Arthur is a mixture of bluff, bluster, shame and romance in which various nations figure. It was founded on the Tientsin massacre after which Li Hung Chang, with one eye on Peking and another on Japan, gave Hsinchen orders to fortify it. It was too strong for Admiral Courbet in 1894, and still stronger in 1894, although the Japanese took it with the greatest ease. Then the misbegotten trinity, Russia, Germany and France, intervened, and forced Japan to relinquish her hold. Russian men-of-war appeared, and English men-of-war also appeared only to disappear again on orders via London from St. Petersburg. After which the "temporary occupation" began, hastened on by the signature at Kiaschow, and followed by other "leases."

Then came the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

This put a new face on Far Eastern matters. It would no longer be open to disinterested onlookers to step in at the psychological moment and, under cover of a Yellow Peril or some other bogey, prevent the victor from reaping the fruits of victory. From that moment two courses were open to Russia, to mend her manners, or to fight. She would not do the first; she meant to shirk the second. Blinded by her self conceit, misled by her local advisers, and driven on by a grasping band of unscrupulous adventurers in St. Petersburg, she gradually drifted into the war which her far-sighted foe had prepared for.

The rest is history. Port Arthur is no longer Russian, and in all human probability never again will be. Within months the Japanese have succeeded not only in driving the Muscovite out of his stronghold, but in changing the course of all subsequent history. It is a marvellous achievement, and we are far too close to it as yet to appreciate its full significance. But this much is certain. The success of the Japanese, tremendous as it is, will be welcomed by the English-speaking world as it deserves to be. In it we see the victory of a righteous defence against a shameless aggression, the conquest of ignorant bluster by educated modesty, and in the main, is the triumph of right over wrong.

Every credit is due to the officers and men who have succeeded in at least doubling the length of time estimated by the Japanese as sufficient for the capture. Stoesel of Port Arthur will for ever rank amongst the honourable names of history.—Shanghai Mercury.

COTTON IN JAPAN.

The Kobb market report, published under the direction of the Hiogo and Osaka General Chamber of Commerce, has this to say of cotton imports at the end of December: "Cotton—American.—Since last reporting the home market has declined considerably owing to the crop being larger than anticipated. Cotton turned up to the middle of this month shows a total of 12,000,000 bales, as compared with 8,500,000 bales during the same period last year. This has caused a panic in the home market, and the position locally is extremely dull. Spinners are in consequence now rather inclined to await developments. Stock middling is nominally quoted at ¥5.5, and forward at ¥21.50, with lower tendency. Indian.—The condition of the American market has caused rates to weaken. No fresh forward business is reported, and the market is much depressed. Old stock is moving slowly at low rates. Quotations for spot cargo stand nominally at ¥21.00 to ¥21.50 for Akola and Khamsam, and ¥22 for new crop of Bengal. Chinese.—Owing to the continued high rate of Silver, no fresh business has been reported for a considerable time past, rates being too high as compared with American and Indian staples. With regard to the alleged dampness in cotton shipments referred to in our report of the 14th October, the Cotton Spinners' Association has decided that suppliers should unconditionally bear the extra loss in weight. This decision will be brought into force on the 1st January, 1905, and the members of the Association have been notified to that effect."
